Handheld Wonders...

Broadcast August 11, 2004

It is amazing the power you can fit in the palm of your hand

An Alaskan man was acquitted of charges he caused a fatal crash by watching a DVD on a dashboard-mounted player while driving. No law in Alaska prohibits operating a DVD player in view of a driver.

PocketSurfer for the first time brings true websurfing to the palm of hand. Patented technology displays full width VGA web pages on a bright screen in less than 10 seconds.

The full featured thumb keyboard is convenient to operate and incorporates all the necessary functions to quickly surf the web.

Pocket surfer connects to any Bluetooth equipped phone and there are adapters for most digital phones that are not Bluetooth enabled.

Designed by Datawind in Montreal Pocket Surfer is sold through cell phone carriers.

It is currently available in Canada from
